Welcome!

I am pleased to welcome you to the University of New Orleans, a student-centered research university located in one of the country's most exciting, culturally diverse cities. UNO is a determined institution with a variety of outstanding academic programs that provide students with opportunities to engage in research and creative scholarship outside of the classroom. We offer a history of 60 years of academic excellence and an alumni network that stretches across the globe. Many of our most acclaimed programs take advantage of the University's unique location. They include: Earth and Environmental Sciences; Music; Hotel, Restaurant and Tourism Administration; Planning and Urban Studies; Transportation; and Naval Architecture and Marine Engineering. New Orleans is a burgeoning center for entrepreneurship, innovation, health care and technology-based fields. Our programs in Computer Science, Engineering, Fine Arts, Materials Science and Healthcare Administration capitalize on these industries.

New Orleans is one of the most culturally distinctive cities in the United States, which means our students are prepared for a career in an environment of unprecedented creativity. Many academic classes at the University revolve around the visual arts, theatre, music, film, cultural tourism, arts education and creative writing. Visitors to the city can attend a vast array of public performances including concerts, art exhibits, theatre offerings and film festivals.

New Orleans was recently named one of “America’s Coolest Cities” and one of six “Best Cities for Digital Nomads.” We proudly carry the name of our city and will continue to reflect the strengths of our community. We provide essential support for the educational, economic, cultural and social well-being of the New Orleans metropolitan area and beyond. We are a true asset to our region. And now, we are on a shared journey – we are excited to welcome you to the Privateer family!

Sincerely,

Dr. John Nicklow

President of the University of New Orleans

Getting Involved: Debunked

⊗ MYTH: I don't have time to get involved on campus.

✔ FACT: Most students have far more free time than they realize — plenty to fit an event or two into their weekly schedule!

Here's the math: There are 168 hours in a week. The average college student takes 15 credit hours in a semester — that's roughly 40 hours/week. (School is a full-time job!) Most students also work part-time jobs; that's another 20 hours. You should get 8 hours of sleep per night — that's 56 hours of catching z's. That leaves 52 hours each week that are unaccounted for. How will you spend those hours? Getting involved is a great way to spend your time!

⊗ MYTH: There isn't anything I want to do happening on campus.

✔ FACT: With over 100 student organizations and events happening every day, that just isn't likely. Check out our social media (@unosil on Instagram) to see what's happening — there's plenty to do and free food ready for you if you just look for it!

⊗ MYTH: Joining a club will get in the way of my school work.

✔ FACT: Actually, research shows that students who are involved on campus are far more likely to graduate and get good grades! With a strong support system and time management skills on hand, you're actually more likely to be academically successful — not less.

⊗ MYTH: I can't afford to get involved.

✔ FACT: Most student organizations don't require financial contributions from their members, with the exception of honors organizations, fraternities, and sororities. Each group is different. There's no need to be wealthy to participate! Be sure to ask lots of questions when you join a group so that you're fully informed.
