Welcome to The University of Akron

The time your student spends in college will be one of the most memorable times in their life! As the parent or family member of one of our newest Zips, you play an important role in supporting your student's success in college. Though many of the experiences students have in college happen on their own, we know that it is so helpful for students to have the support of parents and family members along the way.

This parent and family guide has been created with you in mind. It is meant to be an informative resource and to serve as a conversation starter for you with your student as they encounter different opportunities, experiences, and challenges during this first year of college.

Sending a student off to college is a time of both excitement and anxiety for many families. For some of you, this may be your first child heading off on a new adventure; for others, this may be a process with which you are already familiar. Either way, all of us here at UA know that there are a lot of questions that come up as this major life change takes place.

We hope you will use this resource, along with the many others provided to you during your New Student Orientation program, to help start and continue those important conversations with your students. Parents are often our greatest allies in student success! We thank you for partnering with us to help your student become a successful Zip from day one to graduation day.

Sincerely,

Carly DeBord

Words of Welcome from Residence Life & Housing

One of the things that we hope you and your student will find in the Department of Residence Life & Housing is a cheerful and honest invitation to become engaged in The University of Akron.

Sure, our residence hall student organizations have won countless national awards over the years, and our residential program collaborates with our academic departments to create “Specialized Communities.” And sure, we can continue all of these activities, and we will, but right now we are more interested in sharing with your student our most sincere and enthusiastic invitation to become engaged in our opportunities.

Whether listening to a singer-songwriter during one of our award-winning coffee houses, running for an office in a hall government, or just spending time with their new friends and the resident assistant, your student will have an opportunity to become a part of our traditions. And we hope this process will begin as soon as your student sets foot on campus during our annual Week of Welcome. We have learned time and time again that students who learn to laugh with us will also love to learn with us.

While we cannot invite the families of our students to be a part of each of these opportunities themselves, we are excited to extend a special invitation to you to partner with us. The love and support you offer your student combined with the guidance and experience of our administrative, hall, and student staff makes the realization of your student’s dreams one step closer to reality. In turn, we offer our support to you as well as your student and encourage you to call or email us.

Housing Availability and Assignments

We encourage all students to live on campus. Studies have shown that students who live on campus have strong academic outcomes and our one convenient bill helps students and parents understand the financial costs associated with living on campus.

All residence hall students are required to have a meal plan, except residents in the Exchange Street Apartments, where kitchen facilities are available. Residents with kitchen facilities may purchase a meal plan if they so choose.

We encourage students to apply for housing early. Online housing applications and contracts are only made available to students who have committed to the University by paying the confirmation fee. Students who have completed their housing application and made their housing prepayment by the housing priority deadline of May 15, will be eligible to select their own room.

Residence Life & Housing FAQ

When will my student find out where they are living and who their roommates are?

All students, who completed the housing application before the priority deadline, will select a room and meal plan online. The specific date your student will have access to select a room can be found in the confirmation email sent to students after the priority deadline has passed. This access also provides roommate information if permission has been granted to release contact details. We are unable to guarantee all roommate placements. As such, please do not purchase coordinating décor until your student receives official confirmation of the assigned roommate.

What are the essentials my student needs to bring to furnish their room?

Housing will provide a bed, desk, chair, dresser or nightstand, and wardrobe or built-in closet. The rest is up to your student's imagination. Check out our departmental FAQs where you can find a list of items to bring and what items to leave at home: uakron.edu/reslife/move-in-guide/what-to-bring.dot.

When does my student move into their residence hall?

Typically, Emerging Leaders who live in Ritchie, Sisler-McFawn, and Honors Complex move into the residence halls about a week before the start of the fall semester. All remaining students move in over the days (Tuesday–Thursday) leading up to the start of the fall semester. The move-in date is based on the assigned building/floor and is typically made available to students mid-June.

Does my student have to get the meningitis and hepatitis B vaccinations/boosters before they move in?

While your student is not required to have the vaccinations, the University does highly recommend it. All students are required by law to let us know either way by completing the disclosure question when applying for housing.

What if my student needs to cancel their housing contract?

Students should complete the online cancellation petition available through “My Housing.” Students are subject to the prevailing refund schedule, which can be found in the Contract Terms & Conditions.

What happens if my student was assigned to a building that wasn't one of their choices?

Your student should complete the online room change request form. Our office will make every effort to facilitate a room change, provided there is space available in the preferred building.

Specialized Communities

Specialized Communities have been established to provide distinctive settings where student success is supported through residential experiences. Our specialized communities bring academics and other interests into the residence halls.

Recent studies have emphasized the unique potential for specialized communities to positively impact student success and retention. Not only do students perform better in class, but also they feel more connected to their peers, the faculty, and the University. As a result, students are more likely to return the next year and continue their academic pursuits.

After fully completing the housing application and contract, applicants will be invited to personalize their housing experience by indicating an interest in these communities.

Office of Student Accounts / Bursar

This office is responsible for bursar functions, such as tuition calculation, billing, accounts receivable, collections, refunding, and 1098T tax reporting.

The Office of Student Accounts/Bursar recommends that the student refer to their My Akron account online to confirm daily updates of their registration, financial aid, or other changes to their charges such as meal plan and housing. Students are notified by their university email to view their e-Bill online. Paper bills are not mailed.

Students may view their account, pay online, set up a payment plan, authorize parent access, and address other financial matters by entering their UANet ID and password, and clicking My Experience followed by Student Center.

The Office of Student Accounts/Bursar also offers Authorized Parent Access for parents or other persons if authorized by the student to view the student account balance, pay the bill, or receive an eBill. Sign-up is located on the student's My Akron account.

Direct Deposit (Refunding)

Is your student signed up for direct deposit yet? What are you waiting for? Enroll in direct deposit today!

The University of Akron currently offers direct deposit for the convenience of students who expect to receive a refund.

The steps are easy:

- Log into My Akron with your UANet ID and password.
- Click on Student Center; select "enroll in direct deposit" from the other financial drop down box.

Installment Payment Plan (IPP)

The Installment Payment Plan is an option offered by The University of Akron to help students and their families spread out payments of tuition and University of Akron housing/meal plan expenses over the course of the term.

If the student has Anticipated Aid displayed on their account, this amount will be used to reduce the amount due. 25% of the net balance is required as the down payment on the payment plan, along with a $35.00 application fee. Sign up online through the student's My Akron account on their Student Center. The payment plan closes after the first week of the term.

If Financial Aid paperwork is complete, Financial Aid will be disbursed 10 days prior to the start of the term.

For information about billing, due dates, payment options, refund policy, tuition, and fees, visit uakron.edu/student-accounts.

Parents' Guide to the Family Educational

Rights and Privacy

Act (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) protects your college student's privacy and grants them exclusive right to view and share education records such as grades, transcripts, disciplinary records, contact information, and class schedules. Under the law, colleges and universities may not disclose education records to anyone other than the student.

FERPA's restrictions often frustrate parents, especially parents who pay for tuition. But, as College Parents of America suggests, "Rather than seeing this legislation as a barrier to good college parenting, parents might see this as an important opportunity for meaningful dialogue with a student."

Building a healthy relationship with your student is about giving enough independence to grow, while being there to offer support when a mistake occurs. When it comes to grades, talk to your student as an adult. Voice your opinions but respect your student's decisions.

There is so much more to being a college parent than just checking in on grades at the end of the semester. And at that point it's too late to have an impact.

As far as working within the restrictions of FERPA, support your student in taking personal responsibility for transcripts and financial obligations. Although this legislation restricts parents from involvement in many ways, it also empowers students to grow in independence. Encourage your student to be aware of their rights, which will help them to take ownership over their education.

For parents whose students are not forthcoming with grades, there are several things to do to build trust and communication:

- Be available early in the semester to help set academic goals for studying and grades.
- Show support during stressful times like finals week by sending encouraging emails and care packages.
- Ask questions about your student's classes and what is being learned; show that you're interested in more than just grades.
- Then, after supporting your student through the whole semester, ask if your student would like to share grades with you.
- Respect the decision whatever it might be. Continue to support your student academically.

Key things to remember about FERPA:

- Colleges and universities cannot disclose academic information to parents without written consent from the student.
- Don't be frustrated by this law. Use it as an opportunity to help your student grow more independent.
- Support your student academically throughout the year and not just when grades are released.

Top 10 Questions Parents Ask

Why can't I go to my student's advising appointment?

In 1974, the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) was passed as a United States law. FERPA passes the right to privacy on to students when they reach the age of eighteen or attend an institution beyond the high school level. This right to privacy means that you are not permitted into your student's academic advising appointment at Orientation, even though you may be helping to pay for school.

Don't worry. Because UA's course registration is completed online, you will have a chance to see your student's schedule and to talk about the courses that they will be taking during the upcoming semester. If a change needs to be made to your student's schedule, the change can be made online with the permission of your student's academic adviser.

Why is Orientation mandatory?

It takes a great deal of hard work, persistence, and determination to be successful in college. Students need information about academics, registration, housing/commuting, campus life, financial aid, and student services, all of which will be covered at Orientation! Orientation provides for students all of the tools that they need to be successful at The University of Akron.

How safe is UA's campus?

The University of Akron has taken many steps to ensure the safety of its students. We have our own campus police department, along with the City of Akron's police department patrolling our campus. Emergency phones that have a quick response time in case trouble arises are placed in strategic areas all across campus.

Despite the many safety precautions in place, students need to be smart when they are on campus, especially after dark and in more secluded areas of campus. Students are encouraged to walk in groups. If students need to be on campus alone, they can call UA's police department for a campus escort to walk them to their cars or residence hall rooms until midnight every night. Students should use caution at all times, just as they would in any city at night.

Can my student earn a degree in four years?

Earning a degree in four years depends on many factors. Most degrees at The University of Akron require 128 hours of coursework. This can be completed in four years if they complete 16 hours per semester. However, depending on the program there may be additional requirements that coincide with your student's coursework. For example, students seeking specific engineering degrees must complete a yearlong multi-semester co-op internship experience in addition to 128 hours of coursework. These specific degrees are designed for students to graduate in five years. Another factor that plays a role in a student's graduating pace is how much developmental coursework is needed. Developmental courses are designed for students to develop the skills they need for general college level classes. These additional classes are then added to the total number of credit hours required. Moreover, many students have outside obligations that can limit the number of credit hours attempted in one semester. Students who work and volunteer either full-time or part-time, as well as go to school, may not be able to handle 16 credit hours every semester. If a student is not on pace to graduate in four years, summer courses are available and serve as a great way to catch up on coursework.

Which is better: living on campus or commuting?

Residence Hall life and commuting both have positive aspects. Living in a residence hall provides students with a sense of independence and personal responsibility, even though they have a strong community around them! Living in the halls is a great way to meet new people and to become immersed in the college social life. Conversely, commuting gives students a great opportunity to save money and focus on schoolwork, while adjusting to the many challenges of college life and academics.➤

Does my student need a car on campus?

Unlike some schools, UA's freshmen are allowed to park on campus. Each student taking more than five credit hours per semester is charged a $175 transportation fee that covers the cost of a parking permit and use of the Roo Express Campus Shuttle Service. Having a car on campus has its positives and negatives. On the plus side, it allows students to go home on the weekends, explore the city and surrounding areas, and go to nearby shopping areas when necessary. On the negative side, with so many commuters and staff who have to park on campus every day, parking can become a bit tense at times, especially in the lots right next to residence halls. Also, everything your student would need is readily available on campus.

How can I get money to my student?

The easiest way to give your student money (and to know what it's being used for!) is to put it on their Zip Card. Your student's Zip Card can be used like a debit card anywhere that they are accepted, including locations such as on-campus eateries, campus fast food restaurants, pizza places, and health services on campus, just to name a few. You can add money to your student's Zip Card by going online to zipcardonline.net.

What is there to do around campus?

The city of Akron has a great deal to offer! The Akron RubberDucks play baseball in their state-of-the-art stadium downtown. Free concerts are given at Lock 3 Live all summer long. UA is also home to E.J. Thomas Performing Arts Hall where Broadway shows are presented throughout the year! All locations are a short walk from campus.

If the city doesn't offer enough, there are three shopping malls within a half hour's drive from campus: Chapel Hill Mall in Akron, Summit Mall in Fairlawn, and Belden Village Mall in North Canton. Even Cleveland is only about forty minutes away!

Should my student bring a desktop computer or a laptop?

It's all about preference. Students do not need to have their own computer to be successful at UA. We have computer labs in almost every building, and because the Student Union and the library have laptops available for checkout during their hours of operation, there are computers available all over campus.

Many students, however, prefer to have their own computer. Desktop computers are a good choice because they are easy to upgrade and have a very small chance of being left behind or stolen. There is a hardwire Ethernet connection available in all residence hall rooms, along with wireless Internet, which are provided free of charge. Laptops, on the other hand, are very convenient, because students can take them to class to take notes on or to complete homework wherever they are on campus.

Should my student have a job?

Many students want to work to earn spending money or to help pay for school. Part-time jobs during college can help students gain skills, make valuable connections, and build their resume. It's been proven that working 20 hours or less per week on campus positively affects student success. Students who work on campus tend to take part in collaborative learning activities and have positive interactions with faculty and other students. On-campus jobs often offer flexible hours with the understanding that students need to prioritize their education. There are many federal work-study and other job opportunities available on UA's campus. Visit uakron.edu/career to learn more about on-campus and off-campus positions that are available.

Students at The University of Akron have a wide variety of education abroad program options in almost any academic field and geographic location, including exchanges, faculty-led programs, internships, service-learning programs, and programs through affiliated partners.

Program durations vary from a few weeks to a full academic year. Scholarship and grant information is available. Planning ahead helps students determine the best fit academically, personally, and financially.

Studies have found that education abroad contributes to improved academic performance upon returning to the home campus, higher graduation rates, and increased knowledge and appreciation of diverse cultural practices. In addition, it helps rather than hinders academic performance for at-risk students. Studies also show that students who participate in education abroad have a high rate of employment within 12 months of graduation.
